

Americans Worry About Their Own Guns And Violence

EDITOR'S NOTE — What's on America's mind? America. That's the conclusion of the third nationwide sounding by members of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association on what their readers are talking about.

The Americans are turning in upon themselves. They're worried about the guns they own, and they're not quite sure how to control them. They're worried about violence in the country—not so much just racial violence, but crime and generally violent behavior—and they're talking to each other about it in Boston, in Council Bluffs, in Amarillo, in Saginaw, in Moline, in Newark, all over. It's not quite the same as it was in February, when managing editors over the United States last reported on "what the people are talking about" in our Editor-to-People Survey No. 2. In February, our predicament in Vietnam seemed to be the main topic of conversation in little towns and big cities across the country. In February, we wondered mainly about our behavior toward the Vietnamese.

In July—now that there's talk of peace around a big table in Paris—we're talking about ourselves, and about our behavior toward each other. In July, the memory of Bobby Kennedy's death in a kitchen corridor is still sharp. Newspapermen listening in on conversations on street corners and at club meetings and in offices and factories hear not so many specific mentions of Bobby as they do of the need to put our own violence under tighter controls. They're caught, it seems, in a constitutional dilemma: Should they shackle their own rights to own guns in order to control the irresponsible and violent ones? But guns are not all they're talking about in July. They still speak of the war, if not as much as they did a few months ago. They speak, not very excitedly, of the presidential campaign. They talk of taxes—the taxes that seem to be going up and up, locally as well as nationally. They talk of civil rights, still, but now they seem to be talking more of local action programs to give the Negro more his due. They talk of the Poor People, and in some places they talk of bussing school children to other neighborhoods, and in Texas they talk of maybe getting liquor by the drink.

Diplomats Act Quickly To Win Plane's Return

B52s In Biggest Strikes Of War

Chartered Jet Held Two Days; In Japan Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five diplomatic moves preceded the release of an American plane held on a Soviet island for more than 48 hours after it was forced to land by MIG fighters while flying troops to Vietnam. Two of the five moves were informal, but they involved top-level men on both sides. The three others concerned formal diplomatic representation, on a somewhat lower level. Official Washington was sweltering in near-100-degree heat when the first report of the incident reached the Pentagon and the State Department's Operations Centers at about 7:30 p.m. Sunday. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Clark Clifford were immediately notified. So was Walt W. Rostow, President Johnson's foreign policy adviser.

Ambassador Called Half an hour later when another message confirmed the incident and gave more details about how the DC8 commercial aircraft, chartered by the Military Airlift Command, strayed off course and was forced by MIGs to land on Iturup Island in the Pacific Kuriles Chain, Rusk made the first move: He called Anatole Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador.

Dobrynin did not know about the incident. Rusk explained that if the plane did violate Soviet air space, it was unintentional and that the United States hoped the plane and the 231 people aboard would be released quickly.

Simultaneously, a message was sent to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow instructing Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson to raise the matter with the Soviet foreign minister.

Talks To Kosygin Thompson had a better idea: He knew he would meet Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin at the Kremlin ceremony at which the nuclear nonproliferation treaty was to be signed. The two men spoke shortly before noon, Moscow time—early morning in Washington.

Kosygin knew about the incident. He listened to Thompson telling him what Rusk told Dobrynin Sunday evening. The reply was that the case was under investigation.

The next step was more formal. At 7 p.m. Moscow time (11 a.m. here) Vasilij Kuznetsov, first deputy foreign minister, called in Thompson and handed SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers pounded North Vietnam's southern panhandle Tuesday with the largest number of raids in two months while the big B52 strategic bombers kept up the heaviest saturation pounding given the demilitarized zone area in the war.

Allied ground troops also were busy below the northern frontier and reported they killed 155 of the enemy in clashes in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces.

Along with the record air activity, U.S. headquarters announced the loss of two Air Force fighter-bombers over North Vietnam and a light Army reconnaissance plane and a big Marine helicopter over South Vietnam.

Pilot Missing

One of the pilots shot down in North Vietnam, Lt. Col. Jack Modica, 44, of Birmingham, Ala., spent 23 hours in the jungle and was pulled to safety by a "Jolly Green Giant" helicopter as enemy troops were closing in on him.

The second fighter-bomber was shot down during the search for Modica and its pilot is missing. It was the 860th American plane that the U.S.

command has reported lost in the North. The Viet Cong shot down the Marine helicopter, killing all four crewmen, and also killed all nine men in a Marine patrol the helicopter had set down to check out a mountain trail 24 miles northwest of Da Nang. It was the 778th U.S. helicopter lost in combat in South Vietnam.

Bomb Near DMZ

The Army reconnaissance plane was shot down in the Mekong Delta 50 miles southwest of Saigon, but the pilot escaped with minor injuries, a U.S. spokesman said.

U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers flew 149 missions against North Vietnam Tuesday, the largest number of raids on the North since 155 were flown on April 22.

Like the big B52s dropping their bombs along the demilitarized zone and the southernmost part of North Vietnam, the smaller fighter-bombers hit at enemy supply routes and weapon positions in the continuing campaign to stem the flow of troops and war material into South Vietnam and to smash enemy artillery harassing allied combat bases just below the DMZ.

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. airliner held two days by the Soviet Union for violating its air space arrived in Japan today with its 214 troops bound for Vietnam, and one said they "had a kind of a party during the time."

The chartered four-engine jet, which also carried a crew of 17, flew to Yokota, 30 miles west of Tokyo, from Iturup, in the Kurile Islands north of Japan, where Soviet fighter planes forced it to land Monday.

The U.S. Federal Aviation Administration had concluded that Soviet air space was violated

14 From State

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fourteen Michigan servicemen were among passengers aboard the chartered DC8 Seaboard-World Airlines plane forced to land Sunday at a Soviet base in the Kurile Islands.

The Pentagon has released only the names and home towns of the passengers. None were from the Upper Peninsula.

because the plane crew made a navigational error. The State Department apologized, and the Soviet government released the plane with unexpected swiftness.

Feared Delay

Especially because the big DC8 was carrying U.S. troops to Vietnam, some American officials had feared the incident might develop into a long exchange, with Red China and North Vietnam trying to bring pressure on the Kremlin.

The airliner, owned by Seaboard World Airlines, was forced down as it headed for a refueling stop at Yokota, en route to Cam Ranh Bay, in Vietnam.

There was no immediate indication when its passengers would fly on to Vietnam and whether the same plane would take them the rest of the way.

The soldiers were tired and unshaven but seemed cheerful when they left the plane at Yokota. One reported that one of the Russian MIGs that intercepted them fired two rounds from its cannon.

No Panic

"I wasn't scared although I was a little worried, especially when they fired those two cannon rounds," said Pfc. Dan Bugarsky of Crivitz, Wis.

"There was no panic," he said. "Everyone was calm and cheerful. We sang and had a kind of party during the time. But we were really glad to get to Misawa, I can tell you."

The plane refueled at Misawa, 300 miles north of Tokyo, after leaving the Kuriles.

Bugarsky said the landing strip at Iturup was so short "that about 200 of us guys had to push the plane to turn it around for takeoff."

Was Maiden Flight

The DC8 jet left from McCord Air Force Base near Tacoma, Wash., and was a special model making its maiden flight. But Douglas Aircraft, the manufacturer, said the $10-million plane contained no secret equipment.

The efforts to get the plane back involved contacts between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Anatole Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador in Washington, and between U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

The Escanaba Daily Press, in observance of Independence Day, will not publish on Thursday. The next issue of the Press will be that of Friday, July 5.

Harriman Hopes Prisoner Release Is Peace Signal

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman said today he hopes that North Vietnam's decision to release three American prisoners is a "straw in the wind" pointing toward progress in the peace negotiations.

Going into the 11th session of his talks with North Vietnamese Ambassador Nguyen Thuy, Harriman told newsmen "naturally we would be very much gratified" if Hanoi carries out its broadcast that it would free three American fliers shot down in North Vietnam.

Harriman said his only information on the matter was what the broadcast said.

"We like to think that perhaps it's a straw in the wind," he said. "You remember Secretary of Defense (Clark M.) Clifford spoke of straws in the wind as related to progress in these talks."

Clifford said two weeks ago he saw some straws and hints of evidence of progress in the talks.

Harriman returned to the conference table for a new attempt to get North Vietnam to de-escalate the war in Southeast Asia, but he faced another rejection.

On the eve of the weekly meeting, the official North Vietnamese newspaper Nhan Dan said that North Vietnam is "resolutely and unalterably determined to reject the U.S. demand."

Harriman has told Thuy repeatedly that Hanoi must reduce its war effort before President Johnson will meet North Vietnam's demand that he end all bombing of the North. The North Vietnamese have repeatedly turned down such "reciprocity."

Today's meeting was the 11th since the talks began May 13. Harriman returned Monday night from a trip to the United States which included consultations with President Johnson and other officials. The U.S. negotiator said he hoped the North Vietnamese were "ready to get down to serious discussions."

Harriman also indicated that he brought no instructions for changes in U.S. policy or tactics at the conference. He said he got the impression that people in Washington were generally satisfied with his presentation and "feel that since the talks are going on, both sides will find a way to bring things to a peaceful solution."

Killed In Action

Red Offensives Beaten, Westy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, fresh from commanding troops against an enemy in Vietnam he says has been "progressively weakened," takes over today as the Army's 25th chief of staff.

Westmoreland succeeds Gen. Harold K. Johnson who retired Tuesday at simple White House ceremony.

The four-star general arrived late Tuesday at nearby Andrews Air Force Base prior to today's swearing-in ceremonies and was whisked by helicopter to a presidential welcome unusual even for top ranking military men.

He and his blonde wife were met by President and Mrs. Johnson at the White House where they spent the night. Westmoreland saluted the President and shook hands with Mrs. Johnson. His wife exchanged kisses with both Johnsons.

Upon his arrival, Westmoreland told newsmen the enemy's spring offensive and recent shelling of Saigon were designed to create a public uprising against the Saigon government.

"In all these cases he was badly defeated," he said.

Westmoreland also said that the enemy had been "progressively weakened over the past several months" while allied forces have become stronger.

11 Delta Men In August Draft

LANSING (AP) — Michigan draft boards have been ordered to deliver 1,680 registrants for induction during August, the State Selective Service office said Tuesday. An additional 5,185 registrants will be ordered to take pre-induction physical examinations.

The call will be filled from among volunteers, single registrants and childless registrants married after Aug. 26, 1965. Induction age limits are 19 through 25, with the oldest selected first.

Some 623 of the August inductees will be from Wayne County and 61 from the Upper Peninsula.

The draft call by counties: Alger 3, Baraga 3, Chippewa 3, Delta 11, Dickinson 9, Gogebic 1, Houghton 5, Iron 0, Keweenaw 1, Lapeer 0, Mackinac 13, Marquette 3, Menominee 8, Ontonagon 0, Schoolcraft 2.

Hanoi Announces Release Of Three American Fliers

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam said today it is releasing three more U.S. pilots but did not give their names or say when and where they will be freed.

Once before the North Vietnamese released American fliers captured on missions over the North. It freed three on Feb. 16 as a gesture for the Vietnamese lunar new year. In exchange, the United States released three North Vietnamese sailors a month later.

Hanoi Radio's brief announcement today said: "Proceeding whether this was linked to the U.S.-North Vietnamese talks in Paris.

One other brief announcement over Hanoi Radio today said Le Duc Tho, special adviser to Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief negotiator at Paris, arrived in Hanoi Tuesday. There was no elaboration.

The first U.S. fliers to be freed by North Vietnam were Maj. Morris Overly, 33, of Detroit, Mich.; Capt. Jon David Black, 30, of Johnson City, Tenn.; and Lt. David Matheny, 23, of South Bend, Ind.

U.P. Road Outlook To 1972 Is Dismal

The drear prospect for highway building in the Upper Peninsula for the next four years was described today by Henrik E. Stafseth, director of the Michigan Department of State Highways.

Stafseth listed for the Escanaba Daily Press the highway projects proposed for the Upper Peninsula by the state between now and June, 1972.

The estimated cost of the proposed program so far priced would be $14.3 million and it would provide only $2.2 million of reconstruction of 9.8 miles of U. S.-2 four miles east of Rapid River, the highway regarded as the Upper Peninsula's most seriously deficient and dangerous trunkline. It is the Peninsula's chief east-west thoroughfare. The proposed date for letting this contract is March 1, 1971.

Larger Projects

The largest project in the program is $3.9 million for relocation and reconstruction of US-141 north of US-2 in Iron County with a proposed letting of the contract in August, 1970.

The only other U. P. projects to cost over $1 million in the next four years are:

1. Reconstruction of 6 miles of M-28 in Alger County from 16.5 miles east of the county line east, $1.5 million. Letting Oct. 1, 1969.

2. Reconstruction of 7 miles of M-129 in Chippewa County from 5 miles north of M-48 north, $1.5 million. Letting June 12, 1968.

3. Reconstruction of 9.4 miles of M-28 in Ontonagon County from Bruce Crossing to Trout Creek, $2.3 million. Letting March 1, 1969.

4. Reconstruction of 11.4 miles of M-26 in Ontonagon County from M-26 to Ontonagon, $2.6 million. Letting Dec. 1, 1969.

The total proposed projects for the period, many of them with no cost estimates yet, but all with letting dates or preliminary engineering and right-of-way plans (meaning letting after June 1972) include:

Alger, 3; Chippewa 2; Delta, 5; Gogebic 4; Houghton, 1; Iron, 4; Keweenaw, 4; Mackinac, 2; Marquette, 3; and Ontonagon, 3.

Delta Projects

The Delta projects listed besides reconstruction of US-2 east of Rapid River, include, preliminary engineering and right-of-way on 0.2 mile of grading and drainage structures on US-2 from US-41 east; 4.5 miles of grading and drainage and surfacing on US-2 from Gladstone to US-41; 1.2 miles of grading and drainage and surfacing on US-2 from the north Gladstone city limits; and a grade separation on US-

2 for the Soo Line Railroad. The Marquette County projects include reconstruction of 2.8 miles of M-35 from Little Lake to Gwinn which the State Highway Commission on June 13 approved for a start of work this year if possible. This is described as a resurfacing project to make the highway more driveable.

The Marquette projects also include preliminary engineering and right-of-way on 3.7 miles of relocation and reconstruction on M-35 from County Road 553 to Gwinn, and work on US-41 in Marquette.

Highway "Bind"

The Upper Peninsula has been caught — like much of the rest of Michigan — in a highway construction bind resulting from the "easy money" of the Interstate Highway System, on which the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of highway construction and the states 10 per cent.

This program provides $130 million a year in federal funds for highway construction in Michigan, but there's only 50 miles of Interstate route in the Upper Peninsula, on I-75 from St. Ignace to Sault Ste. Marie, and it is built. For the rest of the state's highway construction needs there's only $30 million in federal aid yearly and when the state matches this it provides only $60 million for all the vast state highway network outside the Interstate System.

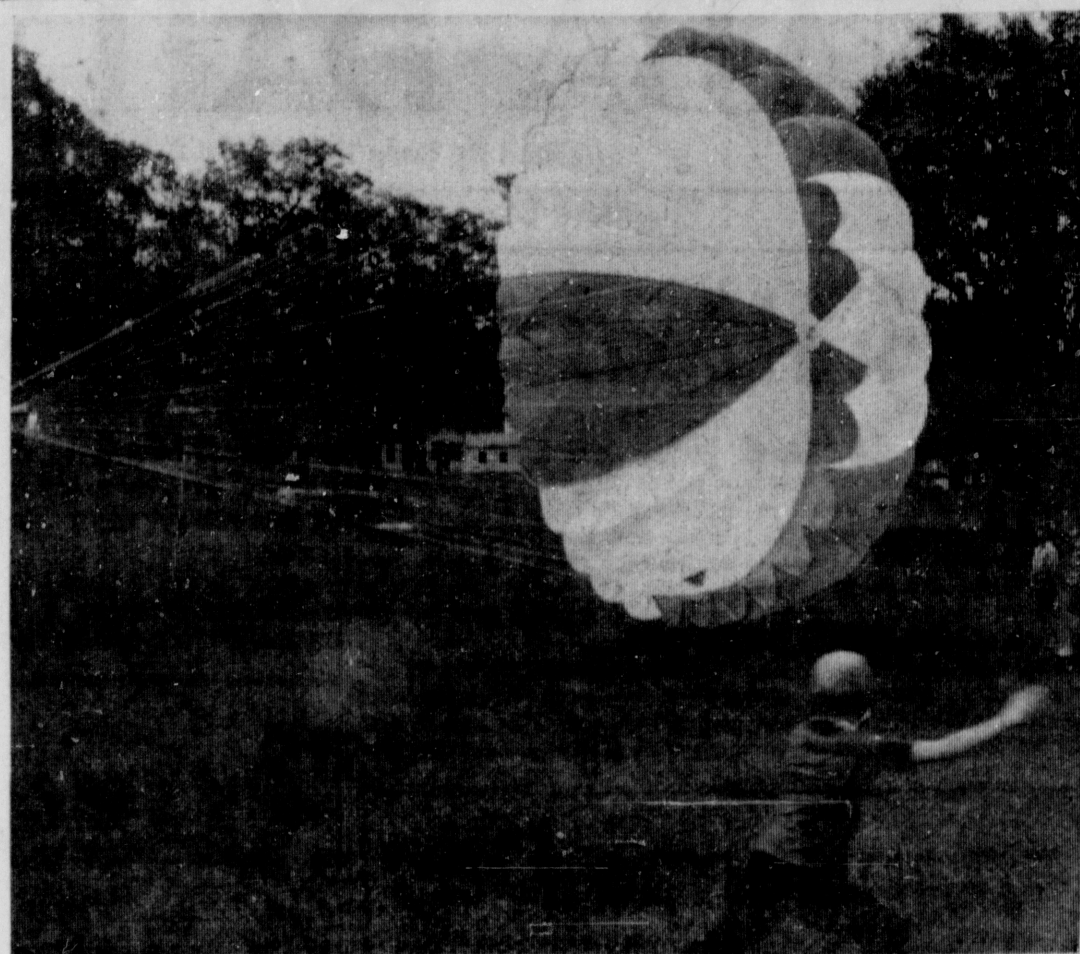

U.P. Sad Song

This situation, with the state scrounging to match the "easy money" Interstate System funds, and neglecting the rest of the state's highway needs, has led Stafseth to urge federal highway officials to revise the federal highway aid formula.

Dealt out of the Interstate System, except for the St. Ignace-Sault segment funneling Mackinac Bridge traffic into Canada, the Upper Peninsula has suffered such a cutback in state highway construction that it is currently getting only eight-tenths of one per cent of the state's highway construction funds, although it is a geographical third of Michigan.

Highway relief this year from the Legislature has consisted mostly of authorization to cut the $3.75 Mackinac Bridge toll to $1.50 on Jan. 1, but this will shorten up potential road construction funds and only a small part of U.P. traffic volume crosses the bridge. Lighting of highways in metropolitan areas downstate has also shortened up highway funds.

Two decades ago, only 55 of the world's cities had populations exceeding one million; today there are 120 such cities.

Pro And Amateur Rockers To Battle At U.P. Fair

The Upper Peninsula State Fair rock and roll combo contest will be held again this year because of the success in its first year. Amateur bands (non-union) will perform for cash prizes in the afternoon, and professional bands (union) will perform in the evening.

Any rock and roll band from the Upper Peninsula will be eligible and cash prizes will be awarded to the top five winners in each division. Winners will be selected on personal appeal, stage appearance, showmanship, musicianship, special musical effects and arrangements.

Each band should have at least 15 minutes of music to be used in the judging contest. Each band must have all of its own equipment. Cash prizes are the same for both divisions, ranging from a $60 fifth place prize to the top award of $100.

Deadline for the contest entries is July 15. Interested amateur groups should contact John Chown, 1815 N. 16th St., Escanaba, Union band members are to contact Gene Smilt-neck, 1616 11th Ave., S., Escanaba.

The Battle of the Bands will take place in conjunction with the annual Upper Peninsula State Fair queen contest, which is Wednesday, Aug. 16, Queen's Day at the Fair. Both performances of the Battle of the Bands and the judging of the queen contest are free grandstand attractions.

Raccoon Bites Woman And Son

AZUSA, Calif. (AP) — Vivian Calvert stepped into her garage Tuesday, heard odd noises, and was bitten three times on the arm by a raccoon.

Her son Steven, 23, ran to help her and was bitten on the arm, too. The family collie also was bitten.

A police officer finally caught the raccoon and turned it over to the pound. The Calverts were treated at a hospital and released.

Gun Clubs Insist On Safety First

POWERS — The best way to use a gun is the safe way.

That's why the newly-organized Powers and Hermansville 4-H Gun Clubs are insisting that members complete a National Rifle Association safety course before a single round of ammunition is issued for target practice.

The initial safety lesson included a discussion by Conservation officer Gerald Wellings on game laws. A film on gun safety also was included in the program.

Future meetings are planned with State Police officers demonstrating legal and illegal firearms.

Leaders of the Powers Clubs are Leo and Tom Labre and Gene Draze. Hermansville gun club leader is Leonard LaCourcier.

A rifle range will be constructed in the basement of Jack's Supermarket, Powers, for use by both Powers and Hermansville clubs. The Powers Lions Club has offered assistance in setting up the range.

Lester Walcutt, Menominee County 4-H Youth Agent, said 10 new Mossberg .22 caliber rifles, and five new Remington 513 T Rifles, all equipped with micrometer peep sights, have been purchased for use by the county rifle clubs. The Mossberg, a light weight target rifle, will have one inch removed from the stock for use by smaller members.

The Menominee County 4-H Foundation financed the purchase as well as paying half the cost of ammunition which the county obtains at a discount by buying in volume for the youth groups. Because of this arrangement, it is possible for youngsters to purchase a box of shells at about one quarter of the retail price.

Criqui Enters Mackinac-Luce Judge Contest

Francis B. Criqui, Newberry attorney, today announced his candidacy for judge of the 92nd Judicial District, of the newly created lower court system for Michigan. The 92nd District consists of Mackinac and Luce counties.

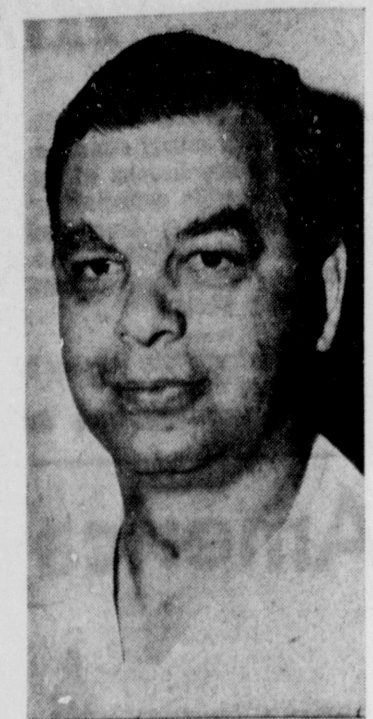

Criqui was admitted to the State Bar in 1932 after graduation from University of Detroit Law School. Immediately after graduation he enlisted in the Army, and received his commission in April, 1943, after attending the Adjutant General's Officers Candidate School at Fort Washington, Md.

Subsequently, he served as an intelligence officer in the 8th Service Command, after which he was appointed commanding officer of the 512th Counter-Intelligence Corps which he led overseas in England, France and Germany. He was awarded the Bronze Star and three battle stars.

After returning to civilian life, he served as an assistant prosecuting attorney for Wayne County in Detroit for two years. He opened a law office in St. Ignace in 1950, and while in St. Ignace served as city attorney and public administrator for Mackinac County. In 1957 he established a law office in the Newberry State Bank Bldg., Newberry.

Criqui is a member of the Lions, Elks, American Legion, 4th Degree Knights of Columbus and the Luce County Chamber of Commerce. An ardent outdoorsman, he is a past president of the Michigan United Conservation Club, an affiliation in Michigan of over 300 sportsmen, garden and outdoor enthusiasts' clubs. He is an associate government appeal agent for Selective Service in Luce County, and had served in the same capacity while in Mackinac County.

He is a member of the Michigan State Bar, the Detroit Bar

Francis B. Criqui

Association, and is president of the Eastern Upper Peninsula Bar Association. He is a member of the Trust and Probate Section of the State Bar of Michigan, in addition to being a member of both the Civil Procedure Committee and the Grievance Committee of the Michigan State Bar. He is also a member of the Michigan Association of Professions.

Criqui and his wife, Catherine, have seven children: Francis L., Detroit; Mrs. D. J. (Rita) McLean, Rochester, N. Y.; James serving in the U. S. Navy, Lemoore, Calif.; Therese, Barbara, Suzanne, and Elise at home.

Horses Klomp-Klomp In Memories Of Old Fourth

The following account of a local Fourth of July celebration almost 60 years ago was written by Mrs. C. Gust Peterson, then Louise Hodgkins, living on the farm of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hodgkins in Pine Ridge. The farm was sold in 1934 to Clarence Sundquist and later to Frank Bender. Mrs. Peterson's sister, Dorothy, is Mrs. Raymond Sundquist of Escanaba.

By MRS. C. GUST PETERSON

There was always a big parade in "town" on the Fourth of July. Decorated floats were pulled by many horses, and the city band would play stirring marches as they paraded down the street. Almost everyone would have a flag and would wave it as the parade passed by.

One memorable Fourth of July when I was about 10 years old, nearly 60 years ago, Ma and Pa and my brother, Eddie, and baby sister, Dorothy, were going into Escanaba to see the parade and to spend the day. I was to ride our pony, Midget, in the parade. Midget was a handsome, sleek Welsh pony, dark brown, with a black mane and tail.

He was a trick pony, a good jumper and a fleet runner. He could "shake hands" and could also stand up and walk on his hind legs. He even played hide and seek with us and the Mattson girls, who lived on a neighboring farm. Midget was a good worker, as well as a wonderful pet.

As Cow Dog

We had a big herd of dairy cattle, and the pony would often take the place of a cow-dog and, with one of us on his back, Midget would round up the cattle and drive them to the barn, even nipping at a cow in the heels if she lagged too far behind! On this day, I had a new saddle blanket for my pony. It was red, white and blue, with a star in each corner.

After the big parade was over, my Uncle Will had Midget by the halter and stopped to talk to an acquaintance. Suddenly, some boy threw a firecracker right under Midget; and, when that firecracker exploded, so did Midget! He took off running at top speed to the barn on the corner of Tweedy St. where Uncle Will and Auntie Hodgkins lived and never stopped until he got there!

On the Fourth we used to take the three-seater buggy out to the picnic and celebration at Old South Park. This was a buggy for very special occasions, as it had plush seats and fringe around the top. Everything was decorated with red, white and blue bunting; and everybody was in a festive, holiday spirit. There was always a baseball game and all the pop, ice cream and candy you could eat.

Dance At Pavilion

There was a dance pavilion there, and the city band would play a concert in the round band-stand. Horse racing was enjoyed, too; and once Midget entered the race, although he was just a pony racing against much larger, longer-legged horses. Midget could never stand having any horse get ahead of him. Charlie Bouton rode our pony in that race, and Midget ran for all he was worth and surprised all the townspeople by coming in second. (But he probably never forgave the horse that came in first!)

We always had plenty of good food at the picnic. Ma usually made a freezer of vanilla ice cream, and we had to take turns turning the crank until our arms were sore. There would be fried chicken, baked beans, potato salad, apple pie, chocolate cake and lemonade from freshly squeezed lemons. Even the grown-ups participated in the games such as "Last Couple Out," "Leap Frog" and "Crack the Whip."

The horses would stand under the trees, switching their tails at the flies and waiting patiently for their folks to get through with their fun and get on home for milking-time. Finally we children would be told to get ready to leave. The horses were hitched up to the buggies or wagons and we would be homeward bound for the farm, tired but full and happy. Another Fourth of July was over!

Plan July 4th Celebration In Powers-Spalding

Final plans for the annual 4th of July celebration in Powers-Spalding have been announced by the Powers-Spalding Lions Club and the Tony Revord American Legion Post, co-sponsors of the event.

The day long activities will begin at 9 a. m. with the traditional parade beginning in Spalding, proceeding down Highway U. S. 2. Float and bicycle prizes will be awarded. The celebration will continue at the Veteran's Memorial Park with races and contests for children of all ages. A special sawing contest will be held from 2 to 4 p. m. and prizes will be awarded.

There will be refreshments and lunch served on the grounds all day, with hot pasties being served from noon on. Music will also be provided at the park all day.

A display of fireworks will be held in the evening at the Powers baseball park to conclude the day's activities.

Too Wet

No forest fires were reported in the Upper Peninsula in the week ending June 30; the third successive week in June without forest fires.

Heavy Traffic Expected, Police Patrols Boosted

Record volumes of holiday traffic are expected to jam Michigan highways during the long July 4 weekend.

The State Highway Commission estimated that motorists will travel over 800 million vehicle miles during the five-day period which began today, nearly 240 million miles more than were traveled during the him a note, protesting in firm, but not angry terms the violation of Soviet air space by the plane.

Apologies Sent

Thompson immediately told the Russian that the violation, if there was any, was inadvertent, probably due to a navigational error, and again expressed the hope that the incident would be settled quickly.

Also Monday afternoon the administration was told by the Federal Aviation Agency that a thorough check of all available data showed that the Soviet charge was correct: The plane in fact strayed off course and flew into Soviet air space. The decision was made to accept the consequences and apologize immediately.

At 8 p.m. EDT Monday evening Malcolm Toon, country director for the Soviet Union at the State Department, called in Yuri N. Tcherniakov, minister counselor of the Soviet Embassy, and gave him a note expressing regret over the violation and repeating the request for release of the plane and the men. A copy of the note was sent to the embassy in Moscow.

Plane Released

The last step was made in Moscow at midmorning (Moscow time) Tuesday when Georgi Kornienko, head of the American section of the Soviet foreign ministry, told Thompson that the plane and the men could go and that orders to this effect already had been transmitted to Soviet military authorities in the Pacific area.

Health Services Support Growing

The Coordinating Committee of the Four-County Associated Health District which consists of the members of the Luce-Mackinac and Alger-Schoolcraft Boards of Health meeting at Newberry June 26 reelected Emmett Vallier of Naubinway to continue as chairman until January, 1969, in view of the anticipated change in the membership of the committee with the one-man, one-vote election next November.

Miss Amalia Krause, who recently joined the staff of the Four-County Department as nursing administrator, was introduced. Also introduced was Mrs. Earl Kaiser of Newberry, the new central office secretary of the department.

It was reported that the cities of Munising and Manistique have increased their annual appropriations to the Health Department to $2,000 each for the fiscal year 1968-69 and was expressed that the cities of St. Ignace and Newberry would also make appropriations this year. An arrangement has been made with the Engadine School District whereby it will pay for special services provided by the Health Department nurse.

Director Gordon A. Eadie reported that environmental recent five-day Memorial Day weekend.

Rural volumes are expected to exceed the daily average by some 54 per cent and motorists were urged by the Commission to plan holiday trips to avoid peak travel periods.

All construction on state highways, excluding emergency repair and other work which does not interfere with traffic, will be suspended from 5 p. m. today to 8 a. m. Monday.

"Every precaution will be taken to eliminate hazards and minimize inconvenience to the public due to road and bridge construction," the commission said.

Sgt. W. I. Treichel, commander of the State Police Post at Gladstone, said that all passes for troopers have been canceled and that maximum patrols will be maintained throughout the entire weekend.

In the Upper Peninsula, the Highway Commission said traffic will be "much heavier than normal" Friday, Saturday and Sunday with no particular emphasis on one day.

All major north and south routes in Lower Michigan are expected to carry heavy traffic with "extremely heavy" traffic expected southbound Sunday afternoon and evening.

Severe southbound congestion with up to 3,000 vehicles per hour is anticipated on Interstate 75 between Detroit and Bay City between 2 and 10 p.m. Sunday and motorists were urged to use alternate routes, if possible.

Traffic across the Mackinac Bridge is expected to be heavy with some 7,000 vehicles crossing northbound expected July 4 and some 8,000 southbound vehicles anticipated Sunday.

In the Escanaba area, there are no major highway projects under construction and no detours in affect.

Briefly Told

The Escanaba City Band will present a concert at 7:30 tonight at the Rose Park. The 4th of July concert will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Karas Memorial Band Shell.

Development Unit Funded

Louis C. Cappel, chairman of the Western U. P. Economic Development District, announces receipt of approval for a grant of $36,300 from the Economic Development Administration of the U. P. Department of Commerce.

This fund enables the newly formed organization to proceed with staffing and launching its program for meeting the economic challenges and problems of the six-county area of Iron, Gogebic, Ontonagon, Houghton and Keweenaw counties.

At present, five of these six counties have taken part in forming the Western U. P. E. D. D. Keweenaw County has declined participation at this time.

At the second meeting of the district in Ewen on June 26, George Rusch and Paul Harkonen of UPACAP, (Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress) who are organizing the three districts of the U. P. provided EDA guidelines for their work that now lies ahead in an action program for the Western U. P. district.

Committee appointed at the first meeting June 3 can now begin to function. The personnel committee is receiving applications for the necessary administrative staff: a director, a staff assistant, and a secretary - stenographer. Applications for these positions can be submitted to Sec. Violetta, Ironwood, chairman of the personnel committee. David Lindquist, Ironwood; Dr. Herford, Garland, Michigan Technological University, Houghton; and Theodore Kubit, L'Anse, are committee members.

The finance committee, Verne Marquardt of L'Anse, chairman, is seeking six-county funding of $12,300 to match, with 25 per cent, the federal grant of $36,300 which is 75 per cent of the total budget of $48,600 for the district. Local county matching funds can be a combination of cash and in-kind participation. Other members of the finance committee are Joe McKeever, Ironwood; Herman LaBonte, Calumet; William Ryan, Ontonagon.

The next meeting of the Western U. P. Economic Development District will be held before the end of July, with individual county OEDP (Overall Economic Development Planning) committee meetings scheduled before then.

Reading Centers Provide Special Lessons To 252

A total of 252 children are enrolled in the Escanaba Area public schools summer reading program, director Louis Diedrich reported today.

Diedrich said there are 34 members of the reading program staff, allowing an average class size of about six children for the two morning sessions.

The class size is small, he said, to allow teachers to provide each child with the best opportunity for learning and individual instruction.

"At the beginning of the program and at the close reading tests in vocabulary and comprehension are administered in order to chart reading progress on each child participating," Diedrich said.

All classes will be suspended Thursday and Friday of this week, Diedrich said, because of the July 4 holiday period. Normal sessions will resume Monday at the Lemmer and Webster School centers.

The program is designed to improve reading skills among selected elementary students from both public and non-public schools in the Escanaba area. Instruction began last week.

lima Olinger, John Altobelli, Charlotte Koski, Ruth Sedenquist and Don Allis.

Teacher aides include Mary Kay Reynolds and Chris Barrow at the Lemmer center and Cynthia Ottensman and Mary Ann LaCasse at Webster.

Floyd Cassidy is the building coordinator at the Webster Center, while John Holochwest is the coordinator at Lemmer.

The program is financed under Title I of the Elementary-Secondary Education Act and was designed under guidelines set up by the following Title I team: Mrs. Dorothy Lindquist, Mrs. Frank Bender Jr., Mrs. Harold Johnson, Sister Cleomene of St. Joseph's School, Fr. Lawrence Gauthier of Holy Name High School, Ray LaPorte, Joseph LeDuc, Kenneth Myllyla, Roy Hivala, Louis Diedrich, Floyd Cassidy, Vernon Ihlenfeldt and Luther Barrett, chairman.

Independence

Not many Americans could recite the Declaration of Independence if called upon to do so. Nor should they be expected to, for it speaks of many things that are so much dead history.

But it must be a rare person who has not made its salient phrases a permanent part of his memory: "We hold these truths to be self-evident — all men are created equal — endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights — life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

The bulk of the Declaration, all the many "he has's" listing the numerous grievances the colonies had against George III, holds little interest for us today. It was not that way in the beginning, though, as Donald Barr Chidsey reminded us a few years ago in a fascinating book about the document, "July 4, 1776."

When the Declaration was first published, he wrote, and for some years afterward, the opening paragraphs caused little comment one way or the other. Philosophy was the fashion in 1776 and it was taken for granted that there would be a flowery and high-principled apology before the real argument was gotten to.

"The colonists were interested in more immediate matters. Philosophy was for the intellectual, an appropriate decoration but in itself without significance. The men on the street, or in the field, wanted sterner stuff, noisier, a specific hammer-and-tongs attack upon an actual physical being, namely King George."

Today, it is just the opposite. We couldn't care less about this section of the Declaration. We are no longer angry at King George. It is the philosophical introduction, as Chidsey noted, that the world has come to love. Indeed, to most Americans, it IS the Declaration of Independence.

Being such a fundamental part of the American credo, it is something we cannot be neutral about. We are still arguing — perhaps more today than ever before in our history — about what it really means to say that "all men are created equal" and how such a belief is to be translated into action. It is no trouble at all to get a controversy going as to whether there is even a Creator, much less one who created men with "certain inalienable rights."

As a scientific treatise, as a statement of provable fact, the Declaration of Independence leaves much to be desired. But as a testament of the human spirit, as a guide and a goal — and a goal — for posterity, as a dream and a faith we are still dimly far from realizing yet cannot let go, there is nothing to compare with it. No nation ever had such a birth certificate as this cherished piece of parchment, our Declaration of Independence.

Heart Transplants

Almost as amazing as heart transplant surgery itself has been the number of medical scientists condemning such operations.

Nobel Prize-winning German surgeon Werner Forssman, for instance, called it "a crime to perform an operation in a field where fundamental research is not yet finished."

Shortly after the first operation in South Africa, the Soviet Union announced that it had banned heart transplant operations on humans.

Opposition has centered on two points. One is the as yet unsolved problem of getting around the body's mechanism for rejecting foreign tissue. Present immunosuppressive methods are "clumsy and dangerous," according to Dr. Paul S. Russell of Harvard Medical School. The other is the who, how and when of deciding that a potential heart donor is "dead" especially since doctors are able to keep a patient in a comatose state of "non-death" for indefinite periods. Associated with this are all sorts of ethical-legal questions raised by theologians and lawyers.

The controversy has tended to obscure two obvious truths: Every new medical technique has been unproven and dangerous in the beginning; and had the operation not been performed on him, Philip Blaiberg of South Africa would be dead today, as would the young man whose heart was given to him. The half-dozen others who have been operated on unsuccessfully would also be just as dead, as would their donors, had their operations never taken place.

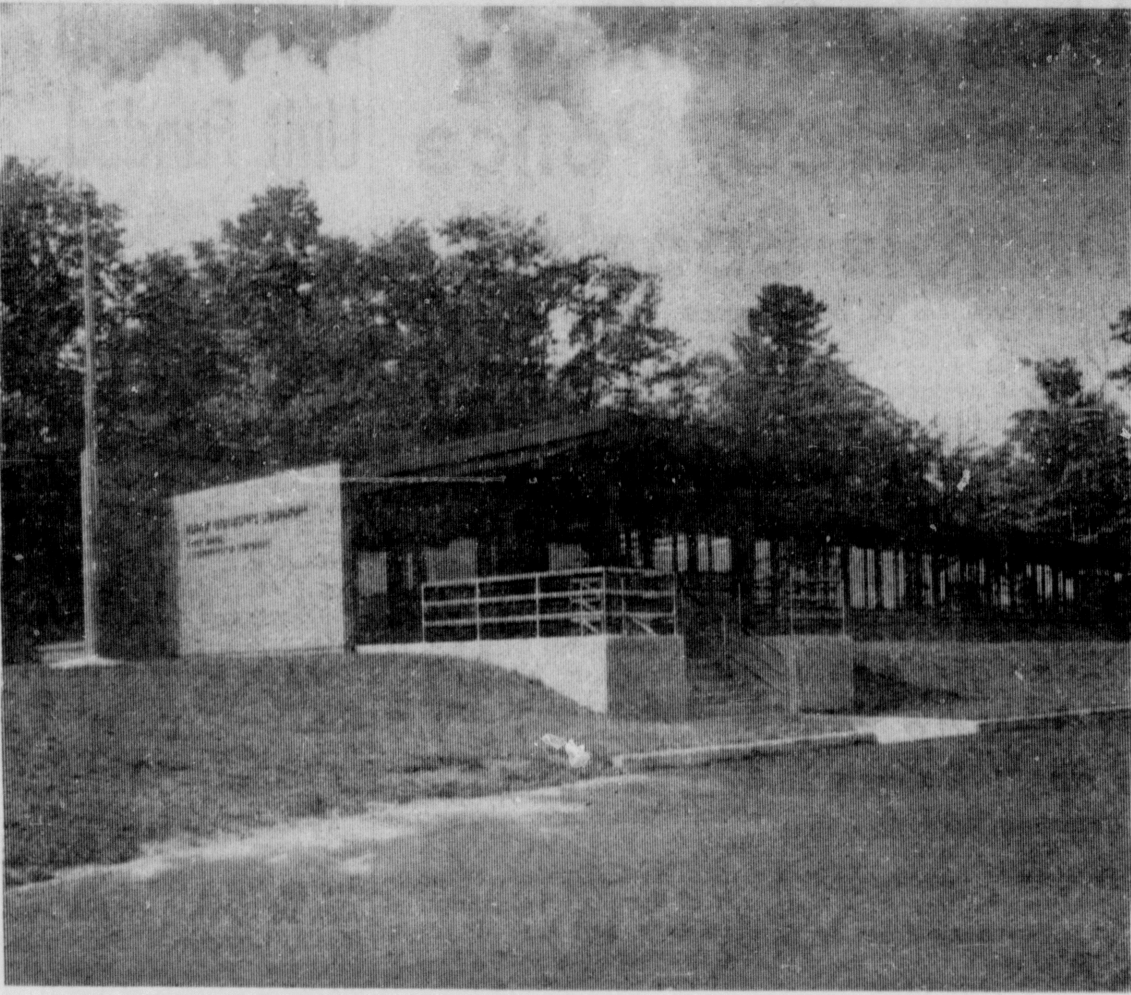

One of the few doctors who has not been emotionally torn asunder by the questions surrounding heart transplant surgery is the man who first performed it, Christiaan Barnard of the University of Cape Town Medical School.

"It is the doctor's duty to treat a patient until he has no further means left with which to treat him," he stated in a letter to the American Trial Lawyers Association.

"So far as the donor in any transplant is concerned, the doctors in charge of this patient must continue treatment and supportive therapy until the stage is reached where all available means of treatment are exhausted. There the duty of the doctor ends as far as the donor is concerned. To minimize human error, it has been our policy that the donor is not treated by the transplant team but by a completely different team of doctors who specialize in the condition from which the donor is dying. "As far as the patient is concerned, the same holds. That is, the doctor must continue treatment until he feels there is no further treatment by which he can benefit the patient. If he feels that heart transplantation is a possible method of treatment, then he has no right to withhold this if it falls within his capabilities.

"Long before organ transplantation was performed, doctors have had this problem and have had to come to a decision when respirators and heart-lung machines had to be stopped, so this is certainly not a new issue which has arisen since we embarked on transplantation of organs."

In simple terms, the only essential question concerning heart transplant surgery would seem to be: Is the physician to be permitted to continue fulfilling his duty of treating the sick with every means at his disposal, or is he not?

MICHIGAN TECH'S Institute of Wood Research has had strong support from the Forest Engineering Laboratory of the North Central Forest Experiment Station of the U. S. Forest Service. This is the main laboratory building of the facility on the Houghton campus of Tech. (U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Photo)

Wood Researchers Find Timber Uses

Since its establishment by the Legislature in 1947, Michigan Tech's Institute of Wood Research has continued to be industrially oriented. Industrial elements sponsored the establishment of the program and industrial leaders have been involved with guidance and selection of projects.

A significant amount of the work of the Institute has been tied in with industrial cooperators or sponsors.

The general purpose of generating new industry has been carried out in the establishment of new wood-using enterprises.

The growing Upper Michigan timber resource is an expanding one and a changing one. An important function of IWR is to study this resource and its changes, and to suggest new methods to make use of the new types of raw material available. In recent years the sawlog-based industry of the Upper Peninsula declined, but at the same time young timber of pulpwood size has been coming into commercial potential.

Species Changing Furthermore, the species of the new pulpwood forests have been changing in emphasis. Aspen, once regarded as a weed, is a dominant species in many areas, and it has been the objective of the staff of IWR to investigate products and processes adapted to this species.

More recently the dense hardwoods and pine have grown into surplus supply in the northern forests. IWR has been successful in creating interest in this forest area with the members of the pulp and paper industry. This region has been viewed as "cut-over" and not considered competitive with the large timber suppliers of the South, the West, and Canada. It really embraces a vigorously growing young forest of highly valued species of timber.

Products Change Concurrent with the change of the northern timber resource have been changes in products and processes. Of particular interest to this forest region has been the development of pulping methods for hardwoods and the adaptation of these processes to expanding markets.

For instance, a widening use of corrugated containers, using hardwood corrugated medium, the growth of the sanitary tissue market, and the continued expansion of the fiber building board industry, have all had growth effect on the timber industries of the Upper Peninsula. IWR research has contributed significantly to expansion of fiber production in this forest area.

Sawlogs Small The sawtimber resource is generally small in size and low in quality. This has dictated new methods of conversion that involve smaller and shorter logs and shorter lumber. Research at IWR has now demonstrated that manufacture from hardwood trees should by-pass conventional sawlog and lumber, and proceed to the ultimate product of hardwood manufacture, dimension stock. This is what is used by the manufacture of furniture or other hardwood products.

It has been recognized from the beginning of the IWR program that timber harvesting is an essential step in the development of new forest based industries. The examination and testing of new logging equipment and systems has always been a part of the program. To this end the U. S. Forest Service has had strong support from IWR in the recent establishment on the Michigan Tech campus of the Forest Engineering Laboratory of the North Central Forest Experiment Station.

An early attempt at encouraging cost reduction in timber harvesting was an intensive study of woods accidents and the preparation of a logging safety handbook, a "first" in the industry.

The development of young hardwood stands of pole size brought the need for new and efficient methods of harvesting as a thinning operation. A system of "strip" thinnings was devised and tested and just recently a test of the silvicultural desirability of the harvesting program has been completed.

Tree Length Logging The economies of tree length logging have long been recognized but the system has not been used in the hardwood stands where selective logging is the rule. The fear of damage to the residual stand has discouraged foresters from recommending this economically improved system. A test by IWR staff showed that the incidence of residual tree damage could be controlled by reasonable supervision of logging.

The peeling of bark in the field has long been recognized as a problem needing solution. An extended program of bark peeler development has resulted in several patents and the production of a commercial machine by the Manitowoc Shipbuilding Co.

Logging Residues Logging residues in the hardwood forests have not been available to a large extent for paper making fiber or charcoal production in the past. Volume studies of this material indicate a need for intense research in harvesting. IWR staff research on systems for re-logging hardwood stands, after sawlog logging, indicated that high speed rubber-tired tractors could concentrate hardwood logging residue at a loading point for a reasonable cost.

The extremely awkward shapes of the hardwood tops and limbs require the development of a partial processing system at the skidding concentration point. Studies were made of the feasibility of chipping at this point and this led to further studies of the separation and segregation of bark from the wood chips. These studies are still going on.

Until his recent resignation to join a logging equipment manufacturer, Leland W. Hooker was the IWR staff member assigned to the timber harvesting project.

Anyone can cash his aces and kings. Most players can do all right with queens and jacks but it takes a really fine player to make use of an apparently worthless six or seven spot.

As anyone who looks at all the cards can see, South can make six no-trump by two routes. One is to cash his minor suit cards and throw West in with the heart to force his lead of a spade. The other is to duck one spade and win up squeezing West. In the actual play South won the first heart with dummy's queen and ran off four diamond tricks. East followed suit while West had to make two discards. West could see that he was going to have to discard two spades sooner or later and decided to do so right away in order to give the impression that he was just getting rid of trash.

South continued by playing three rounds of clubs. East followed with the three, nine and ten and hung on to the seven spot. Then South led a heart to his king and another one back to dummy's ace. East had to discard and let the deuce of spades go.

This would have given South an overtrick if he held both ace and king of spades but was essential against South's actual holding. If East had chucked his little old seven of clubs South would have been able to throw West in with the heart and make his contract in perfect safety.

When the seven of clubs failed to appear South was in a real quandary. Who held it? Finally South worked things out to his own satisfaction. West held it and had carefully blanked his king of spades early in the play. Meanwhile East was holding on to the jack-ten-nine of spades. South played his ace of spades and still will hardly believe that West didn't drop the king!

We are wondering if there is some youth club or organization within the city who can profit a little by having regular paper and magazine drives? We are sure there are a lot of people who would gladly put their papers and magazines aside for such a drive.

We came upon this notice from Manistique which deeply interested us:

What is wrong with a woman who can bake a Danish torte and prepare baked Alaska but can't make a good cup of coffee? — HATE MYSELF

Dear Self: The simplest things are the ones that can drive a person nuts. I know how you feel. I can't make Jello.

I don't know what you are doing wrong, but perhaps some of the great coffee makers in my reading audience will come up with some homey hints. How about it, girls? If there's a coffee secret out there, please spill it.

Dear Ann Landers: What I have to say will apply to thousands of married children, not just our own. I hope I can express myself well enough so you will print my letter.

A few weeks before Christmas, our anniversary, Mother's Day, Father's Day, and so on, the phone calls start — first from the daughters, then the daughters-in-law. They all ask, "What can we buy you?"

Of course I can't tell them that what we really want is not for sale. An invitation to a family meal with everyday chatter would be more delicious than a seven-course banquet in the finest restaurant.

An offer to drive us to town once in a while so we wouldn't have to fight the heavy traffic and park in a lot and feed meters would be pure heaven.

Even a 10-minute phone call that is not a request to babysit, but a call just to visit, would be a rare treat.

What a joy it would be if our children would ask us to join them at the theater one night, or the symphony, or a movie — just knowing they thought of us would be a lift.

I guess what I'm trying to say is thoughtfulness and consideration are the best gifts of all —

MARRIED 40 YEARS

Dear Married: Thanks for your letter. And to the married kids in the reading audience I say, "If the shoe fits — wear it."

Dear Ann Landers: I am in love with a married man. It all started innocently. When he told me he loved me, I knew I loved him, too. The third time we went out of town together he admitted he was married, so you see he is honest.

His marriage was a shotgun type. He never loved his wife and they have been living like brother and sister for two years. He decided to get a divorce a year before I came along. I want to marry this man but I don't want people to think I broke up his marriage. How can I protect my reputation? — MISS D.

Dear D.: If the marriage is dead and you don't want to be accused of killing it, don't hang around the corpse. Tell him when he's a free man to call you up. And don't hold your breath waiting for the phone to ring, Baby.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

"Quotes"

Cities are where the action is. There must be new systems of management, all the best talent in the country must go to the cities and money must be made a tool instead of being an enemy. — New York Mayor John Lindsay.

We have engineered good networks that make it possible for us to get to the city to earn the incomes we take back to the suburbs. But we have almost nothing in the way of transportation to take the poor to those jobs. — Alan S. Boyd, secretary of transportation.

Women's Activities

Karin M. Flannery, Richard A. Bentz Wed

The First Lutheran Church in Gladstone was the setting Saturday, June 8 for the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Karin Marie Flannery, daughter of Mrs. Lyli Johnson of Gladstone and Richard A. Bentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Benz of Saginaw, Mich.

The Rev. Reuben L. Carlson heard the solemn exchange of vows at 4 p.m. Soloist for the service was Paul Cowen and organist was Mrs. Michael LaPine of Gladstone.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Donald Pearson of Excelsior, Minn.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Harold (Greta) Plouff of Escanaba and bridesmaids were Mrs. M. (June) Rafuillah of Racine, Wis. and Mrs. Kelly (Inga) Ray of Milwaukee, also sister of the bride. Serving as bestman was Gerald Benedict of San Antonio, Texas and groomsmen were James Komula of L'Anse and Michael Hamling of Kalamazoo.

Chantilly Lace

The bride chose a floor length gown of re-embroidered French Chantilly lace over maize peau de sole styled with a Bateau neckline, trumpet sleeves and a brush train. Her headpiece was a flowered profile head-dress of Chantilly lace, organdy,

New Food Products Have High Mortality

Market testing has become an important part of the food industry in the United States. One reason for its status is the fact that less than half of the new food products developed last more than two years, according to Portia Marris, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service food specialist.

The new products arise from a variety of influences. Probably the biggest demand has come from the desire for convenience foods. Another major source has been from the industry itself with an eye to capturing more consumers with variations on an old product.

Dr. Morris specified several new products which seem to have some potential in the rough consumer world. These include rich-flavored freeze-dried instant coffee, instant sweet potato flakes, explosion puff-dried fruits and vegetables which retain their shape and flavor and rehydrate easily, and defatted peanuts.

Dairy products are the most notorious members of the innovation generation. Limitation whipped cream, sour cream, coffee cream and milk which are derived from vegetable fats, nonfat dry milk elements, water and other stabilizers have caught the attention of producers and consumers alike.

To meet these developments the dairy industry has initiated a new products program of its own. The old dairy favorites, sour cream and yogurt, have been noticeably affected by the program. A culturing process has been applied to these products so that uniform tartness and flavor are more reliable than in the past.

Such developments have become an integral part of the food industry in order to give the consumer products involving less work, less storage space and longer shelf life in the kitchen.

Mrs. Robert W. Johnson (Lee's Studio)

Margaret Mallmann, Robert Johnson Wed

Miss Margaret Susan Mallmann of Escanaba became the bride of Robert Warner Johnson of Iron Mountain during a ceremony performed Saturday, June 29 at the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Escanaba.

The Rev. Ben Helmer of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church officiated at the double ring nuptials at 2 p. m. Soloist for the service was Mrs. Philip Lyon and organist was Mrs. Pearl St. Clair.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. Alton Mallmann of 316 S. 16th St. and Mr. and Mrs. Odin Johnson of Star Rte. 1, Iron Mountain.

Silk Satin

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length A-line gown of sheer silk satin fashioned with a cowl neckline, trimmed with Venice daisy design lace, elbow length lace sleeves and a detachable cathedral length train edged with lace. Her headpiece of silk satin petals and rosebuds secured her four tiered veil of imported English illusion and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses, white pompons and white carnations.

Mrs. John Linna of Crystal Falls served as matron of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie Peterson of Escanaba and Miss Katherine Anderson of Kingsford.

The matron of honor wore a floor length A-line gown of maize linen styled with short sleeves and trimmed with Venice lace daisies. A four tiered yellow meline face veil completed her attire. The bridesmaids were identically attired in a deeper shade of yellow. They carried cluster bouquets of Marguerite daisies.

Bestman for his brother was Gerald Johnson of Marquette and groomsmen were Michael Karnitz of East Lansing and Robert Davidson of Felch. Seating the guests were Keith Wickman of Felch and Dennis Johnson of Hamilton Lakes.

Mother's Attire

The mother of the bride wore a Nile green bordonne lace ensemble with matching accessories. Mrs. Johnson selected a light pink A-line dress with white accessories and both mothers were presented cymbidium orchid corsages.

The wedding reception was held from 4 to 7 p. m. at the Dells Supper Club.

Following a wedding trip to Lower Michigan the couple will reside in East Lansing. The bride is a graduate of Escanaba High School and is an honor graduate of Michigan State University where she received a B. S. degree in Audiology and Speech Science on June 9.

Mr. Johnson is a graduate of Felch High School and he received a B. S. degree in Engineering from Michigan Tech in 1964. He received a M. S. degree from Michigan State University in 1966 and he is presently working toward a Ph.D. in mechanical engineering at Michigan State.

Eleven Persons File For New Delta Board

Eleven candidates have filed nominating petitions for election to the reorganized Delta County Board of Supervisors.

The deadline for filing petitions expired at 4 p. m. Tuesday.

Party candidates for the November general election will be elected at the August 6 primary election.

Candidates, by district, are: District 1 (Garden, Fairbanks, Nahma, Masonville, Ensign, Bay de Noc, Maple Ridge, Brampton and Baldwin Townships) — Stanley Dominick, Democrat, Rte. 3, Rapid River; Frank Falkies, Democrat, Cornell.

District 2 (City of Gladstone and Escanaba Township) — Frank A. Stupak, Democrat, 810 Minneapolis Ave., Gladstone.

District 3 (Escanaba Precincts 2 and 3 and Ford River and Bark River Townships) — C. Elmer Olson, Democrat, 1005 8th Ave. S.; Roy A. Jensen, Republican, Lake Shore Dr.; Phil A. Miron, Republican, Rte. 1, Escanaba; and Melvyn Taylor, Republican, Schaffer.

District 4 (Escanaba Precincts 1, 6 and 4) — Harold J. Vanlerberghe, Republican, 510 S. 11th St.; Herbert Carlson, Democrat, 415 S. 15th St.; Norbert C. Murphy, Democrat, 505 S. 13th St.

District 5 (Escanaba Precincts 5 and 7 and Wells Township) — H. George Nelson, Democrat, 1432 Sheridan Rd. County Clerk William E. Butler said petitions for a 12th candidate were not allowed after a ruling by election officials of the Secretary of State's office in Lansing.

Butler said a person other than the candidate brought nominating petitions into his office before the 4 p. m. filing deadline, but the petitions did not include the required affidavits of identity required.

State elections officials said the affidavits must accompany the petitions and both affidavits and petitions had to be filed before 4 p. m. Tuesday to be eligible.

Four Now Serve

Four of the persons who filed petitions for election to the Board of Supervisors are now members of Delta County's 27-member board. They are Stupak, Vanlerberghe, Jensen and Nelson.

Vanlerberghe and Nelson are also members of the Escanaba City Council and Stupak is serving on the Gladstone City Commission. If elected to the County Board, all would be re-elected.

Henry DeMars Taken By Death

Henry DeMars, 87, of 313 N. 11th St. died at 8:20 p. m. Tuesday at St. Francis Hospital. He was born May 20, 1881 in St. Pierre, Quebec, Canada. He came to Escanaba when he was 6 years old and has lived here since that time. His wife died July 18, 1959.

Mr. DeMars was a member of St. Joseph's parish. He is survived by one son, Ronald DeMars of Gladstone; three daughters, Mrs. Beatrice Plouff, Mrs. Beatrice Bryson and Mrs. William Bisson of Escanaba, 12 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. Rebecca Charlebois and Mrs. Florence Oulimie both of Sault Ste. Marie.

Friends may call at the Boyce Funeral Home from 3:30 to 9:30 p. m. Thursday and parish prayers will be said at 7 p. m. Funeral services will be Friday at 9 a. m. at St. Joseph's Church. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Vandals Damage New Escanaba Civic Center

Escanaba police are investigating a report of a breaking and entering and malicious destruction of property at the building site of the Catherine Bonifas Civic Center early this morning.

Officers reported they found a door and several tile-covered blockings damaged, apparently with an ax, nails pounded in the gymnasium floor, a smashed door knob and heavy wiring slashed in the boiler room. No estimate has been made of the cost of the damage.

quired to resign city offices. Vanlerberghe, in a statement released today, said that his decision to run for the county board was not made suddenly and that he has discussed the situation with fellow councilmen and members of the city administration.

"I am presently serving a third term as councilman and if elected to the county board my council term would nearly be terminated by the time the board of supervisors took office," Vanlerberghe said. "This should not, in any way, cause a problem to the City Council."

Contests Listed

Supervisors for Delta County will be elected on a partisan basis from new districts established recently by the County Apportionment Commission.

Residents will vote only for those candidates who have filed in their respective voting districts.

The only contests in the primary will be in Districts 1, 3 and 4, where more than one candidate from a single party has filed.

In District 1, Dominick and Falkies each are seeking the Democratic nomination. There are no Republican candidates. In District 3, Jensen, Miron and Taylor all have filed for the Republican nomination while Olson is unopposed as a Democrat. In District 4, Carlson and Murphy are seeking the Democratic nomination and Vanlerberghe is unopposed on the GOP ticket.

Stupak, a Democrat, is the only candidate from either party in District 2 and Nelson, also a Democrat, is the only candidate in District 5.

Lake Freighter, Valley Camp, To Be Soo Museum

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—The lake freighter Valley Camp was due in Sault Ste. Marie today. The freighter will be permanently anchored at the town and serve as a floating marine museum. The ship was being towed from Duluth, Minnesota.

Officials said the ship cost $10,000. The towing job cost about $15,000, because it was started twice. The Coast Guard originally offered to tow the ship free if no one protested. Just hours before the actual journey was to start, the Tugman and Pilot's Association protested, forcing the Coast Guard to drop the project and requiring the hiring of a tug.

Briefly Told

The Escanaba City Band will play a concert at 7:30 p. m. today at Rose Park.

There will be no immunization clinic on Friday, July 5. The next regular clinic will be held on Friday, July 12.

Post Offices will observe regular holiday schedules on the Fourth of July. Special delivery service will be available, and postoffice lobbies in Escanaba and Gladstone will be open for mail deposit, access to lock boxes and purchase of stamps from machines.

State Police issued traffic summonses to the following motorists: Annette Young, 608 N. 7th St., defective brakes; Nolan G. Caswell, 204 N. 12th St., Escanaba, defective mufflers; Francis Gagnon, 811 Superior Ave., speeding; Donald Fleury, 716 Minnesota Ave., no operator's license; Michael Maniaci, 1224 Wisconsin Ave., speeding.

Escanaba police have issued citations to Daniel C. Bal, N. 19th St., Gladstone, improper starting; and Harley D. LaCarte, Rte. 1, Cornell, speeding and driving without an operator's license.

A breaking and entering and malicious destruction at a cottage south of Hyde is under investigation by State Police and Delta County Sheriff's officers. Sister M. Hildegarde, administrator of St. Francis Hospital, said a television set was stolen, windows were broken and dishes and cooking utensils destroyed.

Larceny of an outboard motor and gasoline tank from a boat owned by Ray Sabuco, 2120 Ludington St., is under investigation by Delta County Sheriff's officers. The motor and tank were taken from the boat while it was parked at the John Meyer residence near Breezy Point, officers said.

Pleads Innocent To Assault Counts

James Brannstrom of Perkins pleaded innocent today when arraigned in Municipal Court on two counts of assault and battery.

Bond of $100 which Brannstrom posted Tuesday was continued. A date for hearing will be set later.

Brannstrom was arrested by Delta County Sheriff's officers on warrants issued by Municipal Judge James Fitzharris. The warrants were issued after complaints were signed by Roger Gardner of Wells and Stafford Desjardin of Perkins. Both complainants alleged they were assaulted in Perkins Monday.

Richard J. Haeusler

Haeusler Joins College Faculty

Bay de Noc Community College has appointed Richard J. Haeusler to a faculty position in the Division of Physical Science in the field of biology.

Haeusler will come to Escanaba from Mount Pleasant, where he is a teaching graduate assistant on the Central Michigan University faculty.

Originally from Bay City, Haeusler graduated from high school as valedictorian and subsequently earned a Bachelor of Science degree at Central Michigan. He was appointed a commissioned officer in the U. S. Army Chemical Corps, serving with the 1st Cavalry Division overseas and earning a Dept. of the Army commendation.

During military service, he was an instructor in biological warfare and received additional training at Albuquerque & N. M., in nuclear emergency team operations.

Haeusler was discharged as a commissioned officer and returned to complete his master's degree at Central Michigan University.

In addition to teaching in the field of biology, Haeusler will prepare courses for botany and zoology and assist in the teaching of statistics.

Haeusler has held a variety of positions in scholastic, civic, and professional organizations related to his college and military experience, including member of president council, CMU; president, Association of U. S. Army; and Beta Beta Beta, National biological fraternity.

Gladstone Asks $800,000 Issue On Water Plant

The City of Gladstone will seek voter approval of an $800,000 bond issue to finance construction of a new water filtration plant at a special election Sept. 23.

City Manager H. J. Henrikson said today that he was informed by the city's bonding attorneys that the election could be held on that date.

If approved, construction would be expected to begin in the spring of 1969 with completion early in 1970.

The water filtration plant would provide Gladstone with an improved water supply. Filtering and purification processes to be used in the proposed plant would remove "color" as well as purify the water.

Henrikson said the facility would have an output of about 3,000,000 gallons per day. Present consumption in Gladstone, he said, averages less than 1,000,000 gallons per day.

The $800,000 bond issue — a change from earlier plans which would have asked a $600,000 issue of general obligation bonds to be coupled with $200,000 in revenue bonds — was considered a better proposal because general obligation bonds generally sell for lower interest rates than do revenue bonds, Henrikson explained.

Proposed financing calls for retirement of the bonds over a 30-year period. Henrikson indicated that the interest rate probably would be somewhat less than five per cent if the bond market continues at present levels.

Despite the fact that voter approval will be needed for the general obligation issue, Henrikson said that the city does not anticipate any additional taxes will be required to retire the bonds.

He said that present revenues from water rates coupled with funds from the electric department will be able to meet the expected premium and interest rates of the bonding schedule.

Also on the special election ballot will be a proposal to increase the city's charter limitation from eight per cent to 10 per cent of the city's valuation. The proposal would amend the present city charter to limits proposed in the new city charter.

Lansing Firemen Call Off Strike

LANSING (AP) — Firemen voted Tuesday night to call off a strike after their leaders met privately for more than six hours with Gov. George Romney and Lansing city officials.

Negotiators planned to return to the bargaining table to hammer out contract details.

Romney called the aides to his office after firemen walked off the job Monday morning in violation of a state law prohibiting public employee strikes.

"We cannot countenance a situation such as this in the state," Romney told a news conference after the meeting.

The session, interrupted only for a lunch of sandwiches brought into Romney's office, ended with representatives of Firefighters Local 421 agreeing to call an immediate membership meeting and urge resumption of work, the governor said.

Jackson Adopts Income Levy

JACKSON (AP)—By a 5 to 3 roll call vote, the Jackson city commission Tuesday adopted a city income tax ordinance.

The new ordinance will require residents to pay 1 per cent of their incomes in taxes, while non-residents working in the city must pay ½ per cent. It takes effect in 30 days.

The city expects to collect $1.2 million in revenue for the first year of the tax.

Boyd Will Study Old Car Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is getting interested in how long that new car you buy will hold up.

Announcing plans to broaden auto safety standards to cover used cars, Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd told Congress that the starting point for lasting safety in older automobiles is the assembly line.

Boyd said his agency will study the possibility of setting minimum lifetime requirements for key safety components in new cars—likely to begin with brakes, steering, headlights and tires.

Boyd said half of the nation's 94 million motor vehicles on the road today probably have safety defects. Nearly one vehicle out of five is 10 years old or more.

With aging, the chances of an accident increases, he said.

In a progress report to Congress, Boyd said the Department of transportation expects to issue the preliminary notice of safety standards for used cars this fall.

The used car requirements are authorized by the same 1966 law that already has led to such head rests and collapsible steering columns. The report said top priority will be given to basic safety factors such as brakes, suspension and steering.

Boyd recommended a study of possible inspections on used cars before resale of automobiles. His report also indicated more federal aid may be earmarked in the future for state motor vehicle inspection programs.

The study of the lifetime of safety features could stir a new storm in the auto industry.

But Boyd contended, "a vehicle purchaser should be able to have some assurance that critical areas of safety performance will not fail during a specific period of time."

He told Congress, "It is axiomatic that used vehicles safety can and must start on the new vehicle drawing board."

Castro Claims 'Che' Murdered

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro says Bolivia's president and the commander of its armed forces ordered Cuban revolutionary leader Ernesto "Che" Guevara assassinated after he was captured and that two drunken soldiers did the job.

In an introduction to the Cuban version of Guevara's Bolivian war diary, Castro also claimed that Bolivia's top Communist, Mario Monje, sabotaged Guevara's guerrilla campaign by intercepting "well trained militant Communists who were going in to join the guerrillas."

Guevara's diary was seized by Bolivian army authorities after his capture last October during an abortive campaign to create what he described as a "new Vietnam" in Latin America, with Bolivia as the starting point.

Cuban officials said they got hold of photostatic copies of the diary without paying for them but did not explain how. There was speculation that photostats might have been obtained through Bolivian army sources.

Castro's government began distributing its version of the diary free Monday.

In La Paz, Bolivian President Rene Barrientos charged that the Cuban book was fictional and false. He said it was contrived by Cuba's Communist regime to bolster public morale.

The race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong, but somehow or other the swift and the strong seem to come out on top more often.

It also holds that the best play does not always win but it does so more often than other kinds.

South did not know how to bid his hand. An optimist might just bid six with it on the theory that six might well make opposite a blank North hand. A pessimist might settle for four on the theory that a bid of five might well get his partner to bid an impossible six.

Thirty-five years ago when he was one of our best young players, John Rau of New York would have bid six spades all by himself. He is less optimistic today and only went as far as five spades, whereupon his partner decided that the singleton club, doubleton trump and two kings warranted a slam bid.

Needless to say, John would have given all of that up for one queen of trumps but you play with what you've got. He won the diamond lead; cashed his ace of clubs; ruffed a club to get to dummy and led dummy's last spade. East played low and John went up with his king. When this dropped West's queen the hand was over.

There were a few comments about luck from East and West, and, of course, Johnny was lucky, but he had made the best play and was entitled to some luck.

Why was Johnny's play the best available? If spades were 2-2 his play would win if West held the queen and East the ace. The jack play would win if the ace and queen were reversed. Thus, against a 2-2 break the king and jack plays were equal. If they broke 3-1 there was no way for the jack play to succeed. Even if it forced a singleton ace there would be no way for the play to pick up the queen. On the other hand, if West did hold

South African Quint Is Dead

EAST LONDON, South Africa (AP) — Zoleka, the eldest of East London's 2-year-old Tutsi quintuplets, died Tuesday shortly after she was admitted to the Frere Hospital with suspected inflammation of the brain.

A hospital spokesman said the cause of death could not be determined until after the post-mortem.

The other quint—three boys and one girl—were reported well but they will be taken to the hospital today for examination, the spokesman said.

The quint was born Feb. 26, 1966, to Mrs. Ngesi Tskutse.

Prisoner States Case Against Gun Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — A penitentiary inmate has written Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Mich., that he is "against a gun control bill in any shape or form."

Congress recently enacted a crime law including restrictions on the sale of firearms and is considering more far reaching legislation, including registration of all firearms.

"I am a convicted criminal interned in a federal prison, yet I feel I am a patriotic citizen of the United States," an inmate of the federal reformatory at El Reno, Okla., wrote Broomfield. The congressman did not identify the convict.

"A law against guns will only disarm law-abiding citizens. Guns used in crimes are seldom legally obtained so it will have little effect on the law-breaker," he wrote.

Many criminals are hesitant the convict wrote, because homeowners often are armed.

"Even in a maximum security prison a criminal can obtain firearms," he wrote. "Laws can only restrict law-abiding people."

'Butterfly' Opens Santa Fe Opera

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The Santa Fe Opera Association opened a new season and a new $1.75 million theater Tuesday with a production of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" under the direction of John Crosby.

A crowd of 1,366 filled the theater, which was constructed after the old facility burned in 1967.

Escapee Gets Job

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Thomas Edward Perri, 25, escaped from the Broward County jail Tuesday afternoon and, police said, within an hour he had obtained a job at a bottling company plant two blocks from the jail. He was returned to the jail.

Gen. Johnson Quits Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Harold K. Johnson, whose appointment as Army chief of staff made a big splash four years ago, quietly left the Pentagon for civilian life Tuesday.

The only formal event slated for Johnson's last day was a White House ceremony at which President Johnson was to give an award to the retiring general.

Gen. Johnson asked that there be no big Pentagon show marking his retirement. The mild-mannered officer long ago stopped his people from rendering him honors during such things as base inspections or other visits.

Johnson, now 56, was a survivor of the Bataan death march and was held prisoner by the Japanese for three years in World War II.

Spock Seeking Trial Reversal

BOSTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford has taken under advisement motions for reversal of the convictions of Dr. Benjamin Spock and three codefendants on antitrust conspiracy charges.

Ford did not indicate just when he would rule on the motions. When the trial ended June 14 he set sentencing for July 10. The maximum sentence is five years in prison or a $10,000 fine.

Spock's fellow defendants are the Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., Yale University chaplain; Michael Ferber, a Harvard graduate student, and Mitchell Goodman of Temple Maine. None of the four was in court.

Marcus Raskin, codirector of the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, was acquitted by the all-male jury.

The defendants ask either acquittal, a new trial, or an order for arrest of judgment on the ground that the indictment failed to specify a crime.

Latin Americans Expected To Ask LBJ For Money

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — The presidents of five Central American nations are expected to ask President Johnson once again for higher prices for commodities and goods they sell to the United States when Johnson joins them here this weekend for an economic review.

Foreign ministers of the five nations in the Central American Common Market—El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Honduras and Guatemala—were due today to arrange the agenda for the presidents' conference opening Friday.

All five nations are hurting from the low prices abroad of their basic export crops—sugar, bananas and coffee—while the cost steadily increases on their imports of manufactured goods, machinery and luxuries.

High Water Is Fishing Hurdle

Fair, at best, describes fishing success in light activity due to inclement weather and high water, the Conservation Department reports. Most encouraging is the increasing success in lake trout fishing in Lake Superior, but this activity also is dependent upon a cooperative weatherman.

Local Conservation officers report light activity with some success as follows:

Becvar Heads School Board

Jerrold Becvar was reelected president of the Gladstone Board of Education at the board's reorganizational meeting Monday.

Other officers elected are Dr. B. H. Skellenger, vice president; Mrs. Jane Empson, secretary, and Robert Hupy, treasurer.

The board considered the need of a new boiler for the Buckeye School and authorized bids for its purchase.

A Catch-Up arithmetic program and a program providing cultural experiences for disadvantaged children under Title I of the Elementary-Secondary Education Act were approved and will be included in the school program beginning in September.

Supt. Wallace Cameron briefed the board on work in progress in the system, including the new running track, an outdoor basketball court and redecorating of the old gymnasium.

Employment of Kay Osterberg to assist Robert Richards in the adult education program was approved. The board also approved an increase in salary for school election officials to correspond with rates paid by the city.

Next regular meeting of the board is scheduled Aug. 5.

Circulation Gains At City Library

Circulation at the Gladstone School and Public Library continues to grow with circulation reaching 54,384 and the processing of nearly 2,800 books and many audiovisual materials, according to the annual report by Dorrie Anderson, librarian.

The library was open 53 hours per week during the school year and, with the new schedule, will be open 30 hours per week during the summer to comply with state regulations, she said.

Mrs. Anderson reported, however, that student enrollment increased and that although the library has sufficient clerical and assistant help, the library does not meet American Library Association and North Central Association standards with only one professional librarian for the entire school district.

"Some areas — especially the elementary children — have suffered because there is no time to schedule story hours, library training and reading guidance," she said.

"The Buckeye children did not visit the library at all this year," she continued. "All elementary children need library services which a professional, trained on the elementary level, would give them."

"I would recommend that we seriously consider some arrangement by which an elementary teacher with some library training could work half days as elementary librarian to serve Jones and Buckeye," Mrs. Anderson said.

The report said that non-print materials have had more use the past year and that more audio — visual materials are available.

To get better use of the materials, Mrs. Anderson recommended that a high school teacher "be scheduled one period per day to work with AV materials and equipment and help other teachers with using more multi-media approaches in their classes."

She also recommended that an area be set aside for a production center with the copier, duplicator, typewriter and production materials other than the teachers' lounge and in closer proximity to the library.

The City Hall in Gladstone will be closed all day Friday, giving employees a four-day July 4 holiday. The City Hall will reopen at 8 a.m. Monday.

Gladstone will observe the July 4 holiday with a fireworks display at the lakefront about 9:15 p.m. Purchase of the fireworks was authorized by the City Commission recently.

A car driven by Louis Shaw, Melrose Park, Ill., struck a deer on U. S. 41 north of Rapid River about 3 p.m. Tuesday. State Police reported. Shaw was not injured.

Men's Fall Fashions Explode With Color

STOCKHOLM (AP) —The International Association of Clothing Designers staged a veritable explosion of color at its semi-annual showing of men's fashions Tuesday night.

Some of the models looked rather like national flags. There was a British combination of bright red jacket, blue trousers and white shirt and a blue jacket with yellow trousers from a Swedish designer.

The show included designs from the United States, Great Britain, Sweden, South Africa, The Netherlands and Italy. But the emphasis was on American designs.

Single Pleat

One American designer went back a few hundred years for inspiration and produced a jacket which started off double breasted and ended up single, pleated in the back, with the lining in contrasting colors showing through in the Renaissance manner.

Pleats on jackets were omnipresent, usually in the back and often in combination with belts. Even the tailcoat which closed the show had pleated tails, a welcome novelty in evening wear. Inverted center and side vents were also a recurring feature.

Pockets were of all kinds—patched, hidden, slanted, cash, etc. One American designer had as his motto "symphony in curves is harmony in design" and presented a jacket with four crescent shaped pockets.

Nehru Collar

Collars were a little out of the ordinary. Several jackets had the Nehru collar. One very striking yellow tunic, worn with maroon trousers and matching scarf, featured the emperor collar, and there were also some interesting small variations of the usual jacket lapels.

Trousers emphasized the slim silhouette generally, trim around the waist, but sometimes they flared at the bottoms, which were often slanted.

Historical Display Features Lumber Era Photographs

A display of pictures and historical items has been assembled by the Post House Museum staff and is on display in the Ford Garage window, Mrs. J. Joseph Herbert, curator of the Museum, said.

The display has been arranged for the Homecoming Festivities of Manistique's "Old Fashioned Days" 4th of July and includes lumberjack pictures of old-timers who worked in the area; a shield with miniature lumbering tools; a 70-year-old buffalo robe; family pictures and pictures of early sportsmen; musical groups from a bygone era; and books of early advertisements in the Manistique area.

Mrs. Herbert said the Post House Museum will be open every afternoon, weather permitting, from now until September. Anyone wishing information or interested in doing any research work should call 341-5110.

Who are we for?
TODAY'S YOUTH!

WE know that never before have so many young people had savings accounts, or jobs, or planned so well for the future.

We like to do business with these young people and they are always welcome in this bank.

is significant, I think, that this contract was negotiated on a local level between representatives of the Teacher's Association and the Area Board. We did not require outside mediation. The Teacher's Association is to be commended for its part in the negotiating sessions as the Board feels we have a contract we can live with in accordance with the money available to our school district."

An agreement has not yet been reached with the auxiliary service employees of the Area Schools. Negotiations are still continuing.

At the reorganization meeting of the Board, Nelson was re-elected president; Mrs. Jeanne Larson, vice president; Mrs. Margaret Waters, secretary; and Robert Knoph, elected to the Board in the June 10th school election for a four-year term, was chosen treasurer. Ralph Gillam, Earl LeBrasseur, and Robert Orr, other board members, will serve as trustees.

The board will meet in regular session on July 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school.

Children Visit Wildlife, Farms During Program

GERMFASK—The first full-year "Head Start" program at the GERMfask School recently ended a successful year.

Children participated in educational field trips, including visits to the Seney National Wildlife Refuge, the Walter Rojem and Robert Lustila farms to observe farm animals, to the woods to observe wildlife, and to local business places.

In-school activities included art work, science projects, finger and shadow painting, making bread, frosting, popcorn and other projects.

A "graduation," complete with hats and diplomas signed by Lady Bird Johnson and Sergeant Shriver, was held. It included a program for the parents. To end the year the children participated in the annual school picnic.

The program for the year was under the direction of Jimmie Bruce, Escanaba, Head Start Director; Mrs. Mary Kelly, Area Representative of the Community Action Agency; Mrs. Jean Lustila, teacher; Mrs. Alice Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Linda Tate, aides.

Briefly Told

Robert Goudreau of Gulliver reported to State Police that his hunting cabin in Doyle Township was broken into over the weekend. Nothing of value was taken and entry was made by forcing the front door. The investigation is continuing, State Police said.

State Police cited Robert Munroe of Manistique for improper parking on M-94 on Tuesday.

Hiawatha Shriners, who have charge of the Lumberjack singing contest tonight at the Stadium, are urged to turn out and wear their fezzes.

There will be no films to night at the Drop-In Center, director Richard Marsh announces. However, the Center will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday and park benches will be available on the lawn of the Center for Senior Citizens to watch the parade.

Farewell Party
Mrs. Robert Barr, who is leaving this week to make her home in L'Anse, was honored by members of St. Francis de Sales Choir on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Hoholik, 502 Delta Ave. A hootenanny was enjoyed by the group and a buffet lunch served.

Former Queens To Be Honored Here On Fourth

Eight former Queens who have reigned over Manistique's Fourth of July celebration in the past will be introduced at the A. F. Hall Stadium on Thursday night, according to Mrs. Joyce Lesica, Queen chairman.

Included in the eight are Mrs. Ann Gorsche Marusch, Crystal Falls, who was the first Blueberry Festival Queen in 1939; Mrs. Mildred Beaudoin Gray of Cedarburg, Wis., 1940 Blueberry Festival Queen; Mrs. Peggy Bauers Anderson of Wayland, 1948 Blueberry Festival Queen; Mrs. Joyce McNamara Butler, Sheppard, 1950 Schoolcraft County Homecoming Queen; Mrs. Mary Ann Walters Rhyndard, Auburn, 1955 VFW Water Festival Queen; Mrs. Maureen Popish McNamara, Manitowoc, 1958 Miss Schoolcraft County; Joan Nelson of Troy, Mich., 1963 Miss Schoolcraft County; and Diane Beaudre of Manistique, 1967 Miss Schoolcraft County.

Griffin Sees Peril In Soviets' Call For Arms Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said Tuesday that Soviet Premier Kosygin's call for arms control in the Middle East may mean hidden danger for the United States and its traditional allies in the area, including Israel.

"The indication of Soviet interest in regional arms control in the Middle East may be a step in the right direction, but it should be viewed with caution," Griffin said.

"We should guard against the possibility of a closed-door deal with the Soviet Union which might jeopardize the security of Israel and other friendly countries."

Griffin has advocated a new initiative to halt the Middle East arms race but he maintains that any agreement to limit armament should be negotiated among all the parties concerned—those which supply weapons as well as the nations which receive them.

He urged the Senate to consider his resolution which calls on the President to work toward a non-proliferation treaty on conventional weapons for the Middle East.

Independence Day

"... That all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness"

On July 4, 1776, at Independence Hall, Philadelphia, American freedom was born, with the adoption of the Declaration of Independence. For the 56 patriotic men who signed this document, their act was both an affirmation of belief and an expression of great courage. In Signing, they truly pledged "their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor." To the vision and determination of these men and others like them, we owe our progress and achievements as a nation, and our American way of life.

As we observe Independence Day, we may fittingly celebrate with festivity, for it is indeed a day to be happy. But along with the picnics, the trips and all the carefree pleasures of the Fourth of July, let us remember that, above all, this is a day to commemorate with prayer and thanksgiving, for our God-given rights and for our forefathers' steadfastness in upholding those rights. Let us affirm our faith in the principles and process of personal liberty, and let us pledge to be ever resolute in the cause of freedom.
